DEFENDANTS' JOINT RESPONSE IN OPPOSITION TO THE GOVERNMENT'S MOTION TO ADMIT AUDIO RECORDINGS

Defendants Dkyle Jamal Bridges and Kristian Jones are charged with conspiring to commit sex trafficking and three counts of sex trafficking of minors by force, threats, and means of force. The government's Motion seeks permission to introduce into evidence audio recordings capturing telephone calls between the Defendants, and between the Defendants and others, pursuant to United States v. Starks, 515 F.2d 112 (3d Cir. 1975). The government's audio recordings in its possession had not yet been produced to the defense at the time the government's Motion was filed. Indeed, the defense only received the recordings less than one week before the parties' responses to pretrial motions are due. And the government, as noted in its Motion, has not yet identified which specific recordings it intends to publish at trial. Accordingly, the Defendants reserve the right to object to the admission of the audio recordings.

Respectfully submitted,
